Cultural behaviour in Switzerland: key results for 2019 and comparison with 2014

Cultural behaviour remained stable despite increased use of digital offerings in 2019

In 2019, over seven in ten people visited monuments, concerts and museums, two thirds of the population had their own artistic activities as a hobby. Despite the digital upheaval in music media and e-books, there was also a high level of stability in private music consumption and book reading. In contrast, the number of festival visits increased by almost 10% compared with 2014. These are some of the key results from the Federal Statistical Office's latest survey on cultural behaviour in Switzerland.
